

NUDE AGERS

Above: delegates press the flesh at the Alternative Media Conference in Vermont, 1970

UPPING THE ANTI

Opposite page: peace activists protest against the Vietnam war at an anti-war gathering in San Francisco, 1969

MAXIMUM EXPOSURE

In the late 1960s, swathes of America was alive with antiwar protests and sexual freedom. And while people were speaking out and stripping off, the photographer Robert Altman captured the essence of the era